STAUNTON WINS FAVOR WITH NEW INDUSTRY

Richmond.- The story of the second Yankee invasion of Staunton . . . this time by Brooklyn's export that Miss Smith is getting along nicely.

The razor company, caught between mounting costs, competitive prices and the impending loss of its Brooklyn plant site, moved to Staunton two years ago. More than 100 employees moved also.

In his story, "The Happy Fugitives From Flatbush," Author Poyntz Tyler says the mixing of such cultures as Brooklyn and Virginia caused some headaches on both sides.

"But," he adds, "their marriage of convenience has already lasted two years and might turn into one of the great love affairs of our time.

Commenting on the article, Calvin R. Depew, the company's vice-president - Staunton operation, said "Of course, we are happy fugitives from Flatbush and we are pleased to be located in Virginia where this corporation originally was chartered.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Irby, Route 1, Appomattox, Virginia announce the engagement of their daughter, Gayneile, of La Marque, Texas, to the Reverend Crawford Williams, of Columbia, Mississippi.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Appomattox High School, Bluefield Junior College and the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, New Orleans, Louisiana. For the past year and a half, Miss Irby has served on the staff, as Elementary Director and Kindergarten teacher of the Highlands Baptist Church, La Marque, Texas.

Mr. Williams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnel Williams, of Lancaster, South Carolina. He received his B. A. degree from Carson-Newman College and his B. D. from the New Orleanas Baptist Theological Seminary. For the past three years he has served as pastor of the Edna Baptist Church, Columbia, Mississippi.

The wedding is planned for June.

MILLS - THORNHILL

The wedding of Miss Mildred Ann Thornhill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Thornhill, of Gladstone, to Mr. William H. Mills, of Farmville, son of Mrs. J. M. Mills and the late Mr. Mills, of Clarksville, took place Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the home of the Rev. C. R. Addington, officiating minister.

Decorations of greens and white candles in candalabra were used in the home.

The bride was attired in a silk street length dress of ice blue designed with a scooped neck and circular skirt. Her sister, Miss Faye Thornhill, of Gladstone, was her only attendant. She wore a pink silk dress designed after that of the bride.

A reception was also given at the home, after which the couple left for a short wedding trip to Washington, D. C. They will make their home in Worsham, Va.

OWEN - BRADLEY

FARM CREDIT STOCKHOLDERS MEET SATURDAY, MARCH 16

Stockholders in Campbell, Amherst and Appomattox Counties will gather Saturday, March 16, in the new Lynchburg YMCA Building, at 1315 Church Street, for the annual meeting of Farmville Production Credit Association and National Farm Loan Association, at 10 A. M.

J. A. Overstreet, assistant secretary-treasurer and Lynchburg office manager, will present the association's financial reports. Ben Wailes, PCA director of Amherst County, will give the annual directors' report for that organization, while C. Ray Little, Campbell County director of NFLA, will report for that division.

W. W. Vaughan, president of the NFLA will serve as chairman for the day, while the principal address will be given by George R. Stephens, Representative of the Farm Credit Administration, of Baltimore.

Directors will be elected for the coming year. Members will be provided lunch by the organizations. Door prizes will be given, and Clive Worsley, accordionist, will be presented during the luucheon hour.

A three per cent dividend on PCA stock outstanding on December 31, 1956, will be distributed to those present, with the remainder mailed, according to J. A. Overstreet.

NEWS from HOLLYWOOD

Two newcomers to this town. will appear with Cary Grant in "An Affair to Remember." One is Marny Nixon, a Walter Slezman singer on the Tennessee Ernie Show, who sang for Deborah Kerr in "The King and I." The other is Charles Watts, a college professor turned actor. He's 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 260 pounds and has more degrees than any other actor in Hollywood.

Other newcomers are Robera Ivers and Georgann Johnson, who with William Bishop, will have the leading roles in "Short Cut to Hell,' which Jimmy Cagney is to direct for A. C. Lyles.

Listen, girls: If you're young, athletic and look like Susan Hayward, you might contact the producers who are looking for such a girl to play Calamity Jane in a projected tele-series.

If you're wondering why Red Foley receives thousands of letters each week from our biggest cities about his radio and television shows all you have to do is realize that most city people are from the country and are very sentimental about the fact.

The showing of old films on TV in the past few weeks brought many calls to Meryn Le Roy, the producer of "Waterloo Bridge," "Wizard of Oz," "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," "Tugboat Annie" and "Johnny Eager."

While practically all of the Hollywood actors and actresses have succombed to television, recordings, and night club appearances, Rock Hudson has stuck to movies — he has never done even one TV show. His fan mail, nevertheless, is said to average 3,500 letters a day.

Dolores Michaels, from Kansas City, has a long-term deal from Twentieth Century-Fox, and her first role will be as a rival to Joan Collins in "Wayward Bus." The test scene, which got her the contract, was from "Baby Doll."

NEW BOOM IN THE COUNTY LIBRARY

Blue Camellia, by Frances Parkinson Keyes.

An unseasonable blizzard was raging in northern Illinois when Brent Winslow, convalescing from near-fatal pneumonia, and Mary, his hard-working and over-burdened wife, chanced upon an advertisement in their local paper which set forth the opportunities offered to settlers in a balmy and fertile part of southwest Louisiana. Uprooting themselves from their home, they reached Crowley . . . a city which so far existed largely in the active minds of strong-willed promoters . . . in time for the historic auction of February, 1887, at which house lots and adjacent farm lands were sold for the proverbial song. A few Cajun settlers had already homesteaded on the otherwise uninhabitided prairie and they clung to their mother tongue and their primitive ancestral customs. Among these were the Winslow's nearest neighbors and dearest friends. Blue Camellia is by far the most important contribution Mrs. Keyes has made to American folklore and American history.

KNOW THE WEATHER

By E. H. Sims

Does a red sunset actually tell us anything about tomorrow's weather? The old saying is frequently heard about a red sky at the end of the day—that it means, clear, cold weather.

In there any scientific basis for these two predictions, based on a red sky at sundown? The truth is that there is scientific basis for both, though more for the forecast of clear weather.

In practically all sections of the United States the prevailing direction of movement of the gas layer circling the earth (the weather) is west to east. Today's weather was actually over some point westward yesterday — probably several hundred miles.

If the sun sets red, that means the dry dusty air is toward the west, between the viewer and the sun—hence the red color. If the air to the west is dry and dusty and is moving toward the viewer, it will be overhead in the coming hours. Hence, chances are the weather will be fair in the immediate future.

The reason for assuming a red sunset means cold weather lies in the fact that clearing weather usually follows rapidly the passage of a cold front. In the winter months, most of the fron's are cold and thus, more often than not, a clear weather sign occurs behind a cold front.

TROUT OPENING DAY WILL BE EXPERIMENTAL

The trout season, which will open in the mountains of Virginia at 12:00 noon on Saturday, April 13, is an experiment, according to Bob Martin, fish biologist of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries and assistant chief of the fish division. The Commission agreed last fall to set up an earlier season which would open on Saturday to determine whether this day of the week and an earlier season would be more satisfactory to the fishing public. "Close observation will be made," said Martin, "to determine how satisfactory such an early season will prove to be."

Health and Beauty

Dark circles under the eyes are associated with fatigue and illness. However, they most often have no bearing on health. The normal nature of a discoloration under the eyes is explained by the peculiar anatomy of this area.

The skin of the eyelids is thin, with little fatty tissue, and there are numerous large veins close to the surface. This rich venous supply shows through the thin skin and makes the area seem darker and bluer than the surrounding skin.

Any disturbance in the circulatory system, whether in acute or chronic illness, can be expected to accentuate this discoloration. This may also occur in such periods as menstruation and the latter part of pregnancy. There is no scientific explanation for this increase in discoloration with fatigue, suffering or other similar states of which dark circles are claimed to be symptomatic. People have observed that these conditions go hand in hand. Doctors tell us that at such times the darkness of these areas is accentuated by contrast with a pale and wan countenance.

It is true that there is an individual and familiar predisposition to the development of dark circles. With aging they seem to become more obvious and permanent. This may be due not only to the anatomy and usual age changes of the area but also to increased deposit of melanin, the dark pigment under the eyes.

This type of appearance probably lends itself to correction with cosmetics. Many fine markeup bases and pigmented products can be used under the eyes, to help blend them in with the rest of the face. More than one shade of cosmetic may be needed — one light color for the eye area and a darker color for elsewhere.

Bags under the eyes are commonly associated with dissipation, debauchery and other excesses. This is not the case, however. The changes in the skin under the eyes which leads to pouching of the tissues is primarily due to aging. Normally, the skin of the eyelids is delicate and loosely attached to the underlying muscle and fibrous tissue weakens the lower lid tends to fall in folds.

In extreme forms this can constitute disfigurement which may be a social and economic handicap. In such cases, physicians may recommend plaistic surgery to improve the appearance.
